

School Objects

1st Week

Instructions: Provide each student with the list of objects below. Send them on a hunt to find out how many of each there are in the school (or in a section of the school). Beside each object, they record the number found. After about 15 minutes, bring them back to the classroom and have them form groups of three or four students. Provide each group with a game board, die and markers. One of the students rolls the die, moves and forms a question about the item on the game board. For example, if a student lands on chairs, the student asks, "How many chairs are there?" Using his or her "hunt worksheet," the next student answers. That student then rolls, moves and asks a question.

Extension: Use prepositions of place to answer "Where are they?" or "Where is it?"
